Collection locations in your region!
From Monday 1st of December until Friday 12th of December.

For 20 years, the RECOVERY Trust has been making a major contribution towards reducing the environmental effects of the refrigerant gases used in refrigeration and air-conditioning. The Trust has now collected and destroyed over 290,000kg of unwanted refrigerants saving over 410,000 tonnes of ozone and reducing the build-up of greenhouse gasses by up to 260,000 tonnes of CO2 equivalent. The work continues and we're committed to bringing the collection process closer to you.

For two weeks, from Monday 1st of December to Friday 12th of December, you can bring all your unwanted refrigerant gases, preferably in certified cylinders*, to the temporary collection location below. Empty cylinders can be collected two weeks later.

*Cylinders with expired test dates will be accepted and emptied in the first instance. However, cylinders will need to be recertified before Recovery can accept them again. Recovery's contractors are able to check for test dates.
